

Communicating with a Multi-Generational Workforce

During this seminar, you will learn specific practices for effective and successful communication with every colleague regardless of age. You will learn about the differences between the four generations in today's workforce and how you can all work together and communicate more effectively. Learn what motivates each generation and what how organizations today need to modify and adapt so everyone gets along and plays nicely.

Learn to adapt your communication style to meet the needs of different generational members. This workshop can be adapted for any size group or organization.

Methodology

The full day "Communicating with a Multi-Generational Workforce" program includes topics that will be presented by a series of short lectures and group discussions.
